Dean S. Macon Reed

AMID the epochal changes which have taken place at Hampden-Sydney in recent years, the office of Dean has been established. Until 1919, the president had been the sole executive officer in matters great and small. By that date duties had multiplied, the machinery had become more complicated, the routine more intricate, and it was deemed wise to relieve the situation by appointing a Dean—an officer described by a wag as " a man who has to do what nobody else wants to do." It is evident how important the office must be and, withal, how onerous and nerve-racking. Upon this long-suffering official, devolves—more than upon any other—the internal management of the College. It is he who most frequently comes in contact with patrons and students, hears their tales of woe, passes upon their requests, and imposes penalties.

Truly the Dean must be a man of tact, of sound judgment, of keen sense of justice, and of personal responsibility. He must have a genial manner and sympathetic heart; he must possess wisdom of a high order, must know how to temper justice with mercy and, above all, how to stand firm and yet keep the machinery running smoothly.

Who is sufficient for these things? At Hampden-Sydney the answer is "Dean Reed, the third Dean of the College."

Who, then, is this Dean, the man who combines in such unusual degree the traits and qualities outlined above as necessary for the successful discharge of the duties of the office? In the first place, we may claim that he is a great-great-grandson of the College. It has always been a source of pride and congratulation to friends of Hampden-Sydney that throughout the passing years so many of those in whose veins flowed the blood of the founders have been actively identified with the institution as students or officials. Long ago, Dr. Hugh Blair Grigsby called attention to this, and the fact has been repeatedly emphasized since Dr. Grigsby's time—very recently in Dr. Bagby's striking article, "The Acid Test," which appeared in The Record.

The rule is exemplified in Dean Reed's case. From Hampden-Sydney's point of view, this gentleman is one of "The Scots wha hae"; for on the distaff side he comes from the loins of those to whom Hampden-Sydney owes its being, as will be shown later on.

The Dean's parents were the Rev. Richard Clark Reed, D. D., LL. D., and Mary Cantey Venable. The father, a tall Tennessean of brawn and brain, was a man among men—an eloquent preacher, a gifted writer, an inspiring teacher, a learned scholar, a loyal friend, a devout Christian. Having served in several important pastorates, he, for thirty years, filled with marked ability and success the Chair of Church History in Columbia Theological Seminary. The mother—a worthy helpmeet for her distinguished husband, a lady whose grace of person and charm of character are still fresh in the memories of those who had the privilege of knowing her in the bloom of youth and in developed maturity—was a descendant in two lines of Captain Nathaniel Venable of "Slate Hill," in whose office the plans were formed which culminated in the establishment of Hampden-Sydney "at the head of Hudson's Branch." Her parents were Thomas Frederick Venable and Mary Priscilla Venable, whose home was "Scott Green," near Farmville, Virginia.

The eldest son of the young pastor and his wife was Samuel Macon Reed, who was born at Charlotte Court House, Virginia, July 4, 1879—fortunate both in his heredity and in his environment. For the old County of Charlotte in those days was a center of culture, of breeding, of traditions. The Randolphs, the Henrys, the Marshalls, it is true, had gone; but the Bruces, the Carringtons, the Daniels, the Egglestons, the Friends, the Gaineses, the Grigsbys, the Hannahs, the McPhails, the Mortons, the Reads, the Scotts, the Watkinses, still owned their ancestral homes. "Greenfield," "Moldavia," "Staunton Hill" and the like still radiated the atmosphere of by-gone days. The old ante-bellum civilization still survived and the fragrance of a long-gone past was lingering, after a fashion incomprehensible to one unfamiliar with the conditions which pervailed there a half-century ago.

In the late eighties, the Reeds moved to middle Tennessee and by the time their eldest son was ready for serious academic training they were living in Nashville. There the boy—full of intellectual curiosity, eager to excel, endowed by nature with marked capacity—was fortunate to be enrolled in the University School, founded and owned by Dr. Clarence B. Wallace (1880), a school in which two of Hampden-Sydney's present faculty have taught and in which many of the alumni of the College have been instructors.

Prepared for college—much better grounded in Latin, Greek and Mathematics than most of the college graduates of "these degenerate days"—young Reed entered Vanderbilt University, where he studied for three sessions, 1897-99 and 1901-02. About this time Columbia, South Carolina, became the home of the family and hence his last college year was spent at the University of South Carolina, where he graduated, the first-honor man of the Class of 1905, meanwhile having taught Latin and Greek in the Presbyterian High School in Columbia, 1899-1901, and again in 1903-04, and Mathematics and History in the High School in Rowland, North Carolina, 1902-03. He was Assistant Professor of Mathematics in the University of South Carolina, 1904-05; applied his Mathematics in the solution of practical problems in Charleston, West Virginia, 1905-07; taught Mathematics and Science in the Peacock Military School, San Antonio, Texas, 1907-08; was Head Master of the Donaldson Military School, Fayetteville, North Carolina, 1908-16, and was Associate Professor of Latin, Greek and Mathematics in Davidson College, 1916-20. He taught one year at Brevard, North Carolina, and spent one year at Columbia University, New York, where he received his Master's Degree in 1922. He came to Hampden-Sydney as Professor of Mathematics in 1922 and since 1923 has held the office of Dean here.

The Dean's active mind and vigorous body make it impossible for him to be idle; so to fill in odd moments he has at times engaged in engineering and in cabinet work as avocations—his tastes and mathematical attainments fitting him for the work of road maker and bridge builder. His skill with tools is proved by the artistic furniture by which his attractive home is beautified. As a sideline, too, he has for many summers been director of boys' camps at Sapphire and at Black Bear in the mountains of North Carolina.

The immediate family at "The Deanery" consists of Mrs. Reed—who, before her marriage, July 21, 1909, was Miss Louise Campbell, of Charleston, West Virginia—and two sons, Samuel Macon, Jr., and Frederick Venable.

In college, Dean Reed was a member of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity and he also holds membership in the National Honor Fraternity Omicron Delta Kappa, the local chapter of which he established and sponsors.

It must not be supposed that the Dean's activities are limited to literary, scientific and official matters; he is likewise a power in the church and in the community. A ruling elder, a leader in all things philanthropic and eleemosynary, he is the friend of all and is always ready to spend and be spent for the glory of God and for the good of his fellow men. His colleagues consider him indispensable to the College and "The Hill" would not be what it is were another in his place. The Dean is alive! Long live the Dean!

What gnarled stretch, what depth of shade, is his!
There needs no crown to mark the forest's king
How in his leaves outshines full summer's bliss!

Our old colonial town is new with May;
The loving trees that clasp across the streets
Grow greener sleeved with bursting buds each day.

Sees, some morning, unaware,
That the lowest boughs and the brushwood sheaf
'Round the elm tree bole are in tiny leaf.

"ELLIS"

When one has come to know such a man as Ellis, one's faith in human nature is almost completely resurrected. He hails from the "Pioneer State," and has shown us what really sincere and capable men "Daniel Boone's country" produces. Aside from his many duties, he always finds time for the pleasures of campus life and a long chat with his intimate friends. Once a friend he is always a friend. A glance at his activities will show his ability along different lines of college life. His performances on the gridiron, diamond and hardwood court will be sorely missed. His election as president of his class shows the high esteem that his comrades hold for him. How he can do all that he does and never seem overworked, has always been a mystery to us. He is truly a hard worker, and this, with his earnestness, determination and brilliance, gives an unconquerable combination. Just lately he has started treating the calic and seems to be making great headway. All Tigerdom wishes him luck in whatever work he may choose.

"BOZZIE"

Already the inmates of First Passage are having a "Mourner's Bench" built for the departure of Elliotte. How can we endure without his omnipresent songstering, ready wit, continual argument and Latin "storms"? Along with this, Elliotte has the qualities that command the respect of all. Any impression that he might leave, any reflection that he might cast upon the home could only be one of lasting credit to those who instilled into him the ideals of manliness and character. He is one in whom all the essentials of a true friend are admirably intermingled: loyalty, steadiness, understanding, and an abundance of common sense are deeply imbedded in his nature. Those who have not known him have missed much. Elliotte has followed a pretty stiff course through his four years, but has found time for varied extra-curricular activities, and we may also add here that he has caused many thrills in the S. T. C.

So, Elliotte, as you go out in life we wish you all the success in the world—may health, happiness and long life attend you and may your tribe increase.

"BRAD"

Can anyone write adequately of "Brad"? It is almost an impossibility. To know him is to want him and no friend is truer than "Brad." There is no one in school that does not love him. Hard working and painstaking, ready to lend a helping hand, capable and talented, a true Christian gentleman—these are but a few of his characteristics. Who, I ask you, who in the history of the School has held three editorships? "Brad" has. Who has served on the Student Council and various other councils and has written enough constitutions to become an authority on the subject? "Brad" has. Who has been ready for any lark, from walking a rail fence to searching for the mysterious "K"? "Brad" has. Who is it, above all, whom we wish all success. Do you ask? Well, it's "Brad."

There are really few things that one can mention that "Chink" cannot at least make a stab at doing. His accomplishments, exclusive of the above mentioned, range from an ability to perform upon the violin, guitar, sax or what have you, through star gazing, life saving, to play producing. He has been especially active in the latter, having been a main stay of the Jongleurs since he has been here.

We understand that he is to continue his studies at Virginia in the Department of Medicine. We wish him luck and feel assured that he will add lustre to the proud old name, Hampden-Sydney.

He is quiet because he does not choose to waste his time in unprofitable pastimes, preferring rather to do his work efficiently and unpretentiously. He is a good student and his name is seen frequently on the Dean's Honor Roll. He has a decided preference for history. "Doug" is a well-rounded man; besides being a student he is a ladies' man and is frequently seen in Farmville. Ah! Who is the energetic Senior who walks across the campus as if he were terribly busy? Oh, yes, that is Hugh, better known as "Poopie." Latin is to be blamed for that name and probably for the energetic looks, as Latin generally makes people energetic. Yes, he has ever given much attention to his studies, but something else has attracted him of late for we frequently see him in the halls of S. T. C.

By those who have had the pleasure of really knowing "Poopie" he is considered a true friend. With an unfaltering purpose, high ambitions and a capacity for work we are sure that he will make a success.

But don't get the idea that Bill doesn't seek the lighter side of life, for a wittier conversationalist can scarcely be found and although he is not seen very often up beneath the Rotunda, he is quick to take offence against one speaking slightingly of Norfolk or Columbia. A hard worker, too, he is, yet enjoying play more than the average of us, but knowing well when to indulge. He has made a good start for his M. "MARK"

Here he is, the second part of the Harris twins, "Mark." Last year when we saw Henry leave, we felt that we had some consolation. We still had "Mark" for another year. However, this year we won't have this fact to console us; the second and equally famous Harris passes from the historic old portals of Hampden-Sydney College. "Mark" began his stay at Hampden-Sydney five years ago, but year before last found him away down South as a tobacco buyer. During his interrupted stay with us here he has made quite a name for himself. Not only on the athletic field, where he has played basket ball and baseball and was on the track squad, but in his student life he has done well. Ever ready to help his fellow, he is a great favorite with his fellow students. Here's to "Mark." May he do as well in the world as he has done in Hampden-Sydney.

"BILL"

He has the quiet dignity which requires the respect of everyone. His unassuming manner is a most likeable characteristic. Bill is the most ingenious man at Hampden-Sydney. Seniors will remember his telegraphic system between Venable and Cushing. He is a frequent visitor to S. T. C. and thus helps maintain the cordial relations between the two institutions. His aptitude for the sciences, keen mind and creative ability have been noted for four years on the campus. And these same characteristics will carry him far in life. Bill is always able to convey his exact thoughts, which shows his mastery of the English language. We wish for him the greatest success.

"Ab" hails from the ancient home of Patrick Henry and, although he has not majored in society, yet he is a familiar figure around the "Hill" and across the bridge table. The stage has attracted him, and many a successful play has been due to his efforts, both on and behind the stage. Studies and good grades have been a specialty with him, and he has proved his worth in all lines, inclining somewhat to the scientific. Chemistry, the bugaboo of so many of us, is the chosen field of his life's work. Since he is so gifted with a logical mind and with a perseverance which leads him to work unceasingly until his goal is attained, we cannot but predict that he will glorify the name of Hampden-Sydney when he makes his way into the world. Rooming with two of his fellow townsmen during his first year here, he shared with them the distinction of "Horsiest" Freshman. That same element of playfulness and frivolity which made him the bane of the Sophs' existence has served in the past three years to make him one of the most popular men on the campus—and also in Farmville! Among his campus activities are the positions of Advertising Manager of The Hampden-Sydney Magazine, and Assistant Manager of the baseball team and the German Club. From the grand county of Buckingham comes this dashing young gentleman, and in his short three years stay he has done a world of good for his Alma Mater. "Two Whoops'" wide participation in activities speaks well for his "go and get 'em" spirit. Rarely do we see a man so endowed with such zeal. In his very first year he proved himself an actor. During his second session he gained recognition for himself as a debater. "Herbie" is that person whose chief delight is to make others happy. He has some wisecrack ready for everyone on every occasion. We might well nickname him "the Jokesmith from Pennsylvania." Another phase of this same characteristic is his delight and ability to tell marvelous tales and "string along" his auditors. In this sense he may be called a "bull artist." He is not a ladies' man; rather, "Herbie" is a lady's man.

Now to get to his more serious nature: He is intimately connected with religious activities on the campus. The S. C. A. has passed through a most successful season under his leadership. He is ever alert to do something which will improve the College. He it was who proposed the plan for monthly Faculty lectures. One of the Beau Brummels of the campus is "Dick." Soon after his arrival here he was given the name "Big Dick" and since then few of his friends have known him as Alfred. He has served his fellow students well during his stay here as the college barber. His barber shop is the scene of frequent "bull sessions," and you are not wrong in surmising that the barber leads the discussion. This does not mean that he neglects his work, for his full shop indicates that he does good work.

"Big Dick" is a man of many talents, and among these let us not forget his art with the ladies. Of all men here he is probably wisest in the ways of the fair ladies of Farmville. He has been quite successful in his town courses, taking every one that was offered. We have all envied him his visits from the girls in the blue Chevrolet who come out to see him at the dinner hour. He has left two classics at Hampden-Sydney—a translation of Goethe's Erlking in rhyme and a transcription of Tannhaüser in blank verse. These show the above characteristics and also a decided liking for German literature.

To those who know "Phil" intimately he is a delightful companion. He is a brilliant conversationalist. His wide range of reading has given him a vast store of information. It has also enhanced an innate appreciation for the fine arts. We know of no one who transcends Ropp in ability to use English; his mastery of the mother tongue is evidenced both in his speech and writing. A vocabulary and knowledge whose range covers fields from music to psychology is his. Four years ago a Freshman entered Hampden-Sydney and proceeded to make something of himself as well as to be an asset to his Alma Mater. Hampden-Sydney can boast of few athletes better than Ralph. For the last three years he has been one of the mainstays of the Tiger gridiron machine. The fact that Ralph is this year's Captain of Basket Ball makes it useless to say anything of his ability to perform on the court. Besides, Ralph has performed brilliantly at short stop for the Tiger Baseball team four years. Nor has Ralph rested upon his ability as an athlete, for he is a student in the true sense of the word, and his name has not infrequently appeared on the Dean's Honor Roll. Football

Football, 1929

THE 1929 football schedule was the most difficult assignment ever faced by a Garnet and Gray team—even harder than that of 1928. The season may rightfully be called one of the most successful in the history of the Institution. Although the Tigers lost to several outstanding teams in the State and some of the best teams in the East, they more than held their own with the colleges in their class. In no game was there a lack of that famous Tiger Spirit which has characterized Hampden-Sydney teams since her first representatives took the field. Once again these loyal sons went out and by their clean playing, grit, determination and gentlemanly conduct added laurels to "H.-S. C." Every loyal Tiger is proud of the showing made by the 1929 team that represented his Alma Mater.

Too much credit cannot be given Coach Bernier whose specialty is taking unseasoned material and building teams that win fame throughout the East and South. Every Tiger extends a hand to him who has put athletics at Hampden-Sydney on a high plane. He has the ability to get the best out of every candidate and, at the same time, to command the respect and admiration of every Tiger that reports to him in any branch of athletics.

Early in September when Coach Bernier issued the call for candidates, eight letter men returned along with several second-string men and star performers of the 1928 Freshman team. The team was materially strengthened by the return of "Buck" Nance, who had starred on the 1927 team.

We cannot pass without listing two outstanding performances of the season: the holding of Cornell 7-6 for the first half by the Tigers, and the brilliant performance that overcame the University of Richmond after trailing 8-0 for the first three quarters.

After about three weeks of training the Tigers journeyed to Lexington to open the season with the strong Flying Squadron of the Virginia Military Institute. The Keydets groomed to nearly mid-season form defeated the Tigers 19-6. In the closing minutes of the game two long runs by Willis put the ball on V. M. I.'s thirty-yard line, but a pass was intercepted which prevented scoring. The whole team played a fine defensive game, twice holding the Keydets on the two-yard line.

On Saturday, September 28th, Bridgewater came to Death Valley and was overwhelmed 38-0. The Eagles presented a hefty team that was no match for the Tigers. The second and third string men played the greater part of the game and showed some real football ability.

The following week the Tigers made the trip to Blacksburg and were defeated by the Techmen 37-6. V. P. I. presented a fast-stepping backfield that dazzled the Garnet and Gray. After the first half the Tigers showed a great improvement, but were unable to penetrate the Tech defense until Acting-Captain Lawson intercepted a pass and returned it twelve yards for a touchdown.

On October 12th, the Garnet and Gray invaded the North for the second successive year to meet the strong Cornell team, but lost 40-6. Notable in this game was the brilliant pass work of the Tigers. Score at the half: Cornell 7; Hampden-Sydney 6. However, during the second half the Cornell outfit routed the Tigers. The game received much publicity.

October 26th was home-coming day at Hampden-Sydney. While the largest crowd that ever witnessed an athletic contest on Death Valley cheered, the Bengals scored a 13-7 victory over the Roanoke Maroons. The Garnet and Gray showed superiority in every department of play. Willis, backfield ace, deserves much credit for the victory. Twice he raced over fifty yards for the two touchdowns.

The team took its second trip to the North on November 2d to meet Colgate, considered one of the strongest teams in the country. The Tigers were not able to cope with a team that seemed to be made up of All-Americans and were trounced 60-0.

The Tigers smarting under a 60-0 defeat next journeyed to the "Hill City" to meet the Lynchburg College Hornets. Due to injuries Captain Blanton and Willis watched the game from the bench. The Tigers hit their stride in this game. Score: 25-0.

The outstanding game of the season was with our old rivals, the University of Richmond, in the new Richmond stadium. For three quarters the Tigers were trailing 8-0, but in the last few minutes McCann entered the game and pushed over two touchdowns to win 13-8.

The Randolph-Macon game, which was to be played in the Richmond stadium, was canceled on account of snow.

For the last game of the season the Tigers went to Richmond and were defeated 20-6 by the strong William and Mary Indians. Both teams got many breaks but the Tigers did not take advantage of them. Late in the final quarter Bradford snagged a fifteen-yard pass and ran thirty-five yards for the Tigers' only score.

Varsity Football Squad

Freshman Football Résumé

WITH THE enrollment of some excellent material, including Hardaway, Baker, Pond, Lawson, Krupka, Bristow, Joyner, Carroll, Phillips, Shannon, Powell, Nottingham, Liverman, Humphries and Bohannon, the Freshman team, coached by "Red" Smith, had an excellent season, in view of the fact they met some of the best prep schools in the State. Coach Smith, who hails from Furman University where he was a star athlete, has prepared some splendid material for the 1930 team, besides giving Coach Bernier invaluable aid with the 1929 varsity.

Merci Beaucoup

Without the aid of our kind and generous friends it would be impossible to publish THE KALEIDOSCOPE.

We take this opportunity to express our appreciation and gratitude to Mr. C. D. Hurt of The Stone Printing and Manufacturing Company, who has given unsparingly of his time and ability to the publication of this book; to the White Studio, for their painstaking work and coöperation; to Florence White Williams, for her talent and care in preparing the art division pages; to Mrs. Josephine N. Goodspeed, whose interest made possible the art work of this volume; to Dr. W. H. Whiting, Jr., for the dedicatory sketch; to the advertisers, whose financial support make possible THE KALEIDOSCOPE; and to the administration, faculty and students, who "at sundry times and in divers manners" have aided by their coöperation and work the publication of THE 1930 KALEIDOSCOPE.

Hampden-Sydney College

This institution opened its doors on January 1, 1776, and is the only college in America from which the students entered the Revolutionary War in a body.

Among its charter trustees were James Madison, afterward President of the United States, and Patrick Henry.

It stands high among the list of "small colleges" which have sent from their halls a remarkable number of leaders and successful men in every profession, in every walk of life.

It has always adhered to the standards of high scholarship and gentlemanly conduct. It is definitely Christian in its beliefs and outlook. In its physical equipment and in its courses of study it meets the most rigid modern requirements.

The degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science are given.
